Subject: Revision proposal for RDA instructions for treaties

Introduction

Law catalogers have been dissatisfied with the RDA instructions for access points for treaties since RDA was published. The basic rule is to create an access point based on the name of the first-named government plus a conventional collective title. Only when the signatories cannot be identified is the access point based on the title of the treaty. Especially in the case of multilateral treaties this leads to access points that have nothing to do with the way the treaties are known, referred to, or searched for. As such, they fail to support the user tasks of find, identify, and select.

To aid in understanding this proposal, we have included some definitions for terms used in the background material.

Definitions

accession “‘Accession’ is the act whereby a state accepts the offer or the opportunity to become a party to a treaty already negotiated and signed by other states. It has the same legal effect as ratification. Accession usually occurs after the treaty has entered into force.” (United Nations Treaty Collection glossary, http://treaties.un.org/Pages/Overview.aspx?path=overview/glossary/page1_en.xml) adoption “‘Adoption’ is the formal act by which the form and content of a proposed treaty text are established. As a general rule, the adoption of the text of a treaty takes place through the expression of the consent of the states participating in the treaty-making process. Treaties that are negotiated within an international organization will usually be adopted by a resolution of a representative organ of the organization whose membership more or less corresponds to the potential participation in the treaty in question. A treaty can also be adopted by an international conference which has specifically been convened for setting up the treaty.” (United Nations Treaty Collection glossary, http://treaties.un.org/Pages/Overview.aspx?path=overview/glossary/page1_en.xml) bilateral treaty “From a general perspective, treaties can be classified according to laterality (bi-, tri-, pluri- and multilateral treaties) . . . . At first glance, the terms 'bilateral' and 'multilateral' treaty are self-explanatory with regard to the two (bi) or several (multi) parties involved. However, a treaty with a multitude of signatories may be bilaterally structured if it is concluded between one or more States on one side and two or more States on the other side, creating rights and obligations only between the mutually facing sides. . . . Plurilateral treaties are commonly understood as treaties open to a restricted number of parties due to their specific subject matter or geography.” (Vienna Convention on the Law of Treaties: a Commentary. Oliver Dörr, Kirsten Schmalenbach, editors. Springer, 2012; p. 30-31)

“Traité bilatéral: A. Traité conclu entre deux sujets du droit international. B. Traité conclu par deux groupes d'états, chaque groupe agissant collectivement ou collégialement, ou entre une organisation internationale et une groupe d'états.” (Dictionnaire de droit international public. Bruylant, 2001)

“Bilateral treaties are negotiated between a limited number of states, most commonly only two, establishing legal rights and obligations between those two states only.”—UNHCR Refworld (http://www.unhcr.org/refworld/type/BILATERALTREATY.html)

multilateral treaty

“A multilateral treaty is a written agreement between three or more sovereign states establishing the rights and obligations between the parties. They often result in international conference or gathering of nations done under the auspices of international organizations. Bilateral treaties, by contrast are negotiated between a limited number of states, most commonly only two, establishing legal rights and obligations between those two states only.” (USLegal, http://definitions.uslegal.com/m/multilateral-treaty/)

ratification

“Ratification defines the international act whereby a state indicates its consent to be bound to a treaty if the parties intended to show their consent by such an act. In the case of bilateral treaties, ratification is usually accomplished by exchanging the requisite instruments, while in the case of multilateral treaties the usual procedure is for the depositary to collect the ratifications of all states, keeping all parties informed of the situation.” (United Nations Treaty Collection glossary, http://treaties.un.org/Pages/Overview.aspx?path=overview/glossary/page1_en.xml)

signature

“Where the signature is subject to ratification, acceptance or approval, the signature does not establish the consent to be bound. However, it is a means of authentication and expresses the willingness of the signatory state to continue the treaty-making process. The signature qualifies the signatory state to proceed to ratification, acceptance or approval.” (United Nations Treaty Collection glossary, http://treaties.un.org/Pages/Overview.aspx?path=overview/glossary/page1_en.xml)

treaty

“The term ‘treaty’ has regularly been used as a generic term embracing all instruments binding at international law concluded between international entities, regardless of their formal designation. Both the 1969 Vienna Convention and the 1986 Vienna Convention confirm this generic use of the term ‘treaty’. The 1969 Vienna Convention defines a treaty as ‘an international agreement concluded between States in written form and governed by international law, whether embodied in a single instrument or in two or more related instruments and whatever its particular designation’. The 1986 Vienna Convention extends the definition of treaties to include international agreements involving international organizations as parties. In order to speak of a ‘treaty’ in the generic sense, an instrument has to meet various criteria. First of all, it has to be a binding instrument, which means that the contracting parties intended to create legal rights and duties. Secondly, the instrument must be concluded by states or international organizations with treaty-making power. Thirdly, it has to be governed by international law. Finally the engagement has to be in writing. Even before the 1969 Vienna Convention on the Law of Treaties, the word ‘treaty’ in its generic sense had been generally reserved for engagements concluded in written form.” Other terms used to refer to international instruments include: agreement, convention, charter, exchange of notes, declaration, memorandum of understanding, modus vivendi, and protocol. (United Nations Treaty Collection definitions, http://treaties.un.org/Pages/Overview.aspx?path=overview/definition/page1_en.xml)

Background

Treaties are agreements between two or more governments or other bodies with treaty-making powers. Treaties may be designated by various terms, e.g. agreement, convention, etc., and corresponding terms in other languages. Legal scholars distinguish between bilateral and multilateral treaties.

Bilateral treaties often name the parties to the treaty in the title and are signed on one particular day. Multilateral treaties often have descriptive titles that do not name any of the parties and may be signed over a long period of time. Some multilateral treaties are major international agreements with well-known titles. Legal scholars use these titles when writing about these treaties, and library users search for these titles when seeking the text of the treaties and works about the treaties.

A multilateral treaty may be opened for signature on a particular day, but the first signature may come at a later time. The period during which a treaty is open for signature may be limited, but governments may ratify or accede to the treaty at a later time without signing it. The fact that a government has signed a treaty does not mean that it has ratified it. Many multilateral treaties are the product of an international conference or are adopted by the General Assembly of the United Nations before being opened for signature and ratification. When resources embodying a multilateral treaty give the names of the parties to the treaty, they are often given in alphabetical order and, of course, only list the parties to the treaty at the time of publication. Basing the RDA authorized access points on such resources leads to access points for many multilateral treaties that start with Afghanistan or Albania. Moreover, adding the earliest date of signing to such access points is confusing to users because generally this date does not correspond to the date on which the government named in the access point signed or acceded to the treaty.

For all these reasons, the signatories to a treaty cannot be said to be truly “creators” of the treaty, and that can be said even less for the first-named signatory, which may have signed long after the treaty came into existence.
Examples

• The North American Free Trade Agreement was signed in 1992 by Canada, Mexico, and the United States. An early publication by the Canadian government in 1992 had the title: North American Free Trade Agreement between the Government of Canada, the Government of the United Mexican States and the Government of the United States of America, i.e., Canada was named first. An early publication by the U.S. government in 1993 had the title North American Free Trade Agreement between the Government of the United States of America, the Government of Canada and the Government of the United Mexican States, i.e., the U.S was named first. The website of the NAFTA Secretariat http://www.nafta-sec-alena.org gives the text of the treaty in English, French, and Spanish. The title of the treaty is given there simply as North American Free Trade Agreement or its equivalent, but the preamble of the treaty mentions the Government of Canada first in the English and French texts and Mexico first in the Spanish text. So the "government named first in resources embodying the work" varied according to who published it.

• The Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women was adopted by the UN General Assembly in December 1979 and officially opened for signature on 1 March 1980. The earliest date of signing was 6 March 1980. The treaty came into force in 1981 and was closed for signature. Since then other countries could only accede to it. In the United Nations Treaty Collection http://treaties.un.org the list of “participants” is in alphabetical order and begins with Afghanistan, which signed on 14 August 1980. In vol. 1249 of the United Nations Treaty Series the alphabetical list of participants (in a footnote at the beginning) begins with Barbados, which signed on 24 July 1980. The alphabetical list of signatories at the end of the text begins with Afghanistan.

• The Convention on Psychotropic Substances was first signed on 21 February 1971. In the United Nations Treaty Collection the list of participants begins with Afghanistan, which didn't sign the treaty but acceded to it in 1985. In vol. 1019 of the United Nations Treaty Series the alphabetical list of participants (in a footnote at the beginning) begins with Barbados, which acceded in 1975.

The Bluebook: A Uniform System of Citation, the standard guide used in American law reviews, cites all treaties by title. For bilateral treaties it adds the parties after the title; this is optional for multilaterals, but the only example it gives is NAFTA (3 parties). It has various stipulations for adding date, including date opened for signature. The Chicago Manual of Style, 16th ed. (section 14.302) seems to follow the lead of the Bluebook.
Recommendations

Based on recommendations from the American Association of Law Libraries, ALA proposes the following:

- Record the title of the treaty as the preferred title for all treaties, and use the title of the treaty as the basis for the authorized access point.

  Rationale: As described above, the title of the treaty, and not the signatories, serves best to identify the work.

- Abandon the conventional collective title Treaties, etc.

  The repeated use of the phrase “treaties, etc.” and similar phrases to refer to all kinds of treaties is cumbersome and unnecessary. We propose creating a generic definition of treaty for the Glossary and using that term in the RDA text to signify all kinds of treaties and international agreements. For a list of instructions where the phrase should be revised, see the final numbered recommendation.

- Broaden the definition of RDA 6.20.3 (Date of Signing of a Treaty, Etc.) to include the date of adoption, and simplify the punctuation to always use parentheses.

  A named compilation of treaties is better identified by the inclusive dates of signing of the treaties, rather than the earliest date (6.29.1.33). This is more consistent with the treatment of multiple protocols in the same instruction. In some cases, only the year(s) of signing may be available. By not specifying sub-types of dates, the proposed revision leaves the selection of a particular kind of date to cataloger’s judgment.

  In suggesting changes to the examples for the years of signing of the Treaty of Utrecht (RDA 6.19.2.8, 6.20.3.3, and 6.29.1.33.2 [proposed]), we based the information on the existing note in RDA 6.19.2.8. As can be seen from the authority record (http://lccn.loc.gov/n80020292), there is some disagreement among the sources as to which treaties are counted as part of the Treaty of Utrecht.

- Remove the July 2013 revisions to 6.21.1.3 (Recording Other Distinguishing Characteristics of Legal Works) and 6.29.1.33 (Additions to Access Points Representing Treaties, Etc.), because the other revisions proposed here make them unnecessary.

Twenty-seven specific revision proposals follow.
Proposed revisions

1. Revision of RDA 0.6.3, fourth paragraph [remainder unchanged]

0.6.3 Section 2: Recording Attributes of Work and Expression

When identifying a bilateral treaty, etc., record the following element for both signatories. Record the element as a separate element, as part of the variant access points representing the work, or as both.

Signatory to a treaty, etc.

Clean copy:

For instructions on date of a treaty, see 6.20.3.

5. Revision of RDA 6.19.2.7
6.19.2.7 One Treaty, Etc.
Record Treaties, etc. as the preferred title. For a treaty or other agreement between two or more of the following:
   a) national governments
   b) international intergovernmental bodies
   c) the Holy See
   d) jurisdictions now below the national level but retaining treaty-making powers.
record as the preferred title (in this order of preference):
   a) a short title or citation title used in legal literature
   b) the official title of the treaty
   c) any other official designation by which the treaty is known.

EXAMPLE
Agreement Establishing the World Trade Organization
Treaty of Portsmouth Resource described: Traité de paix entre le Japon et la Russie. Title used in legal literature: Treaty of Portsmouth

Exception
If the treaty, etc., is multilateral, and the first signatory cannot be ascertained, record the name by which the treaty is known as the preferred title.
EXAMPLE
Clean copy:

6.19.2.7 One Treaty

For a treaty or other agreement between two or more of the following:

a) national governments
b) international intergovernmental bodies
c) the Holy See
d) jurisdictions now below the national level but retaining treaty-making powers,

record as the preferred title (in this order of preference):

a) a short title or citation title used in legal literature
b) the official title of the treaty
c) any other official designation by which the treaty is known.

6. Revision of RDA 6.19.2.8

6.19.2.8 Compilation of Treaties, Etc.

Record Treaties, etc., as the preferred title. For a compilation of treaties and/or other agreements between one party on one side and one or more other parties on the other side, apply the instructions at 6.2.2.

If a compilation of treaties, etc., is identified by a collective name, record that name as the preferred title. For a single treaty, etc., in the compilation, see 6.19.2.7.

EXAMPLE

Treaty of Utrecht
Collective name for a group of treaties signed between 1713 and 1715
Acordos e convencões internacionais em material de imposto de renda
Australian treaty series

Clean copy:

6.19.2.8 Compilation of Treaties

For a compilation of treaties and/or other agreements, apply the instructions at 6.2.2.
If a compilation of treaties is identified by a collective name, record that name as the preferred title. For a single treaty in the compilation, see 6.19.2.7.

EXAMPLE

Treaty of Utrecht

Collective name for a group of treaties signed between 1713 and 1715

Acordos e convencões internacionais em material de imposto de renda

ALENA
Preferred title recorded as: North American Free Trade Agreement

8. Revision of RDA 6.19.3.6

6.19.3.6 Conventional Collective Titles

When a conventional collective title is used as the preferred title for a compilation of legal works (see 6.19.2.5.1 and 6.19.2.8), record as a variant title:

the title proper of the resource being described

or

the title found in a reference source.

Do not record a variant title if it is the same as, or very similar to, the conventional collective title.

EXAMPLE

Acts of the Parliament of the Commonwealth of Australia
Preferred title recorded as: Laws, etc.
Revised ordinances of Newton, Massachusetts, 2001
Preferred title recorded as: Laws, etc.

Bermuda laws online
Preferred title recorded as: Laws, etc.

Acordos e convenções internacionais em matéria de imposto de renda
Acordos internacionais de previdência social
Tratados ratificados pelo Brasil
Preferred title recorded as: Treaties, etc.

Australian treaty series
Preferred title recorded as: Treaties, etc.

Clean copy:

6.19.3.6  Conventional Collective Titles

When a conventional collective title is used as the preferred title for a compilation of legal works (see 6.19.2.5.1), record as a variant title:

- the title proper of the resource being described

  or

- the title found in a reference source.

Do not record a variant title if it is the same as, or very similar to, the conventional collective title.

EXAMPLE

9. Revision of RDA 6.20.3

6.20.3 Date of Signing of a Treaty, Etc.

Core Element

6.20.3.1 Scope

Date of signing of a treaty, etc., is the date a treaty, etc., or a protocol to a treaty, etc., was formally signed or was adopted by an international intergovernmental body or by an international conference.

6.20.3.2 Sources of Information

Take information on date of signing of a treaty, etc., from any source.

6.20.3.3 Recording Date of Signing of a Treaty, Etc.

Record the date of a treaty, etc., or of a protocol to a treaty, etc., was signed by applying the basic instructions at 6.20.1. Record the date as fully as possible in this order: year, name of the month, number of the day.

Example

1978 December 18
Date of signing of a treaty between Australia and Papua New Guinea

1948 March 25
Date of signing of an agreement between Corporación de Fomento de la Producción (Chile) and the World Bank

1783 September 3
Date of signing of a treaty between France and Great Britain

1713–1715
Years of signing of the treaties comprising the Treaty of Utrecht; individual dates not available

1994 April 15
Date of signing of the Agreement Establishing the World Trade Organization

1979 December 18
Date of adoption of the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women by the U.N. General Assembly

Indicate the source of information by applying the instructions at 5.8.1.3.

10. Revision of RDA 6.21.1.3: delete first paragraph

6.21.1.3 Recording Other Distinguishing Characteristics of Legal Works

For treaties, record a word or words from the title proper that serves to differentiate the treaty from other treaties between the same parties signed on the same date.

11. Revision of RDA 6.22.1.3

6.22.1.3 Recording Signatories to a Treaty, Etc.

Record the name of a signatory to a treaty, etc., as instructed at 11.2.2.
Record the name of a signatory as a separate element, as part of an access point, or as both. For instructions on recording the name of a signatory as part of the authorized variant access point, see 6.29.1.15–6.29.1.20 6.29.3.3.

[examples omitted; no changes]

Clean copy:

6.22.1.3 Recording Signatories to a Treaty

TREATIES, INTERNATIONAL AGREEMENTS, ETC.

6.29.1.15 Treaties, Etc., between National Governments

For a treaty, or any other formal agreement, between two or more national governments, construct the authorized access point representing the work by combining (in this order): using the preferred title for the treaty (see 6.19.2.7).

- the authorized access point representing the government whose name appears first, either in resources embodying the work or in reference sources (see 11.13.1)

- the preferred title for the treaty, etc. (see 6.19.2.7).

EXAMPLE

United States. Treaties, etc. Special economic assistance

Authorized access point for Resource described: Special Economic Assistance : agreement between the United States of America and Burma, effected by exchange of notes

Japan. Treaties, etc.

Authorized access point for: Traité de paix entre le Japon et la Russie

Australia. Treaties, etc. Security Treaty between Australia, New Zealand, and the United States of America

Authorized access point for: Security Treaty between Australia, New Zealand, and the United States of America (ANZUS)

Argentina. Treaties, etc. Antarctic Treaty

Authorized access point for: The Antarctic Treaty (1959). Signatories listed in the preamble, beginning with Argentina

Bolivia. Treaties, etc. Treaty for the Prohibition of Nuclear Weapons in Latin America

Authorized access point for: Treaty for the Prohibition of Nuclear Weapons in Latin America (The Treaty of Tlatelolco). Signatories listed in reference source by date of signature
Belgium. Treaties, etc. Schengen Agreement

Authorized access point for: Schengen Agreement. Signatories listed in the resource

Convention monétaire belgo-luxembourgeoise-néerlandaise

Agreement Establishing the World Trade Organization

Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women

Exception

If there is only one government on one side of the treaty, etc., and two or more governments on the other side, construct the authorized access point representing the work by combining (in this order):

a) the authorized access point representing the single government on one side (see 11.13.1)

b) the preferred title for the treaty, etc. (see 6.19.2.7).

EXAMPLE

Netherlands. Treaties, etc.

Authorized access point for: Convention monétaire belgo-luxembourgeoise-néerlandaise. A convention between the government of the Netherlands on one side, and the governments of Belgium and Luxembourg on the other side

If there is no consistency in the order in which the governments are named either in resources embodying the work or in reference sources, construct the authorized access point by combining (in this order):

a) the authorized access point representing the government that is named first in the first resource received

b) the preferred title for the treaty, etc.

If the first signatory cannot be determined, construct the authorized access point representing the work by using the preferred title on its own.

EXAMPLE

Agreement Establishing the World Trade Organization

Authorized access point for: Agreement Establishing the World Trade Organization. Agreement signed on April 15, 1994. Signatories not listed in text nor found in reference sources consulted

The term national governments, as used here, includes bodies exercising treaty powers such as Native American nations and African tribal governments.
TREATIES

6.29.1.15 Treaties between National Governments

For a treaty, or any other formal agreement, between two or more national governments,\(^5\) construct the authorized access point representing the work by using the preferred title for the treaty (see 6.19.2.7).

EXAMPLE

Special economic assistance

Resource described: Special Economic Assistance: agreement between the United States of America and Burma, effected by exchange of notes

13. Revision of RDA 6.29.1.16

6.29.1.16 Agreements Contracted by International Intergovernmental Bodies

Apply the instructions at 6.29.1.15 for agreements between an international intergovernmental body and a body or bodies falling into one or more of the following categories:

a) other international intergovernmental bodies

b) national governments

c) jurisdictions other than national governments

d) other corporate bodies.

EXAMPLE

United Nations. Treaties, etc. Agreement between the United Nations and the Food and Agriculture Organisation of the United Nations and the United Kingdom as administering power of the territories of Cyrenaica and Tripolitania regarding technical assistance for Cyrenaica and Tripolitania

Authorized access point for: Agreement between the United Nations and the Food and Agriculture Organisation of the United Nations and the United Kingdom as administering power of the territories of Cyrenaica and Tripolitania regarding technical assistance for Cyrenaica and Tripolitania Bolivia. Treaties, etc. Development credit agreement (Santa Cruz water supply and sewerage project) between Republic of Bolivia and International Development Association

Authorized access point for: Development credit agreement (Santa Cruz water supply and sewerage project) between Republic of Bolivia and International Development Association

Corporación de Fomento de la Producción (Chile). Treaties, etc. Loan agreement (agricultural machinery project) between Corporación de Fomento de la Producción and International Bank for Reconstruction and Development

Authorized access point for: Loan agreement (agricultural machinery project) between Corporación de Fomento de la Producción and International Bank for Reconstruction and Development

6.29.1.20.1—Treaties, Etc., Contracted between Two Parties

For a compilation of treaties, international agreements, etc., that are contracts between two parties, use the authorized access point that would be appropriate for a single agreement between those parties (see 6.29.1.15–6.29.1.18):

EXAMPLE

United States. Treaties, etc.

Authorized access point for: United States agreements with the Republic of Korea

Exception

If such a compilation has become known by a collective title, use that title as the authorized access point.

6.29.1.20.2—Treaties, Etc., Contracted between One Parties and Two or More Other Parties

For a compilation of treaties, international agreements, etc., that are contracts between one party and two or more other parties, construct the authorized access point by combining (in this order):

a) the authorized access point representing the one party (see 11.13.1)

b) the preferred title for the treaty, etc. (see 6.19.2.8).

EXAMPLE

United States. Treaties, etc.

Authorized access point for: Treaties and other international agreements of the United States of America, 1776–1949 / compiled under the direction of Charles I. Bevans

Brazil. Treaties, etc.

18. Revision of RDA 6.29.1.33

6.29.1.33 Additions to Access Points Representing Treaties, Etc.

If the access point representing a compilation of treaties and/or other agreements between two parties is constructed by using the authorized access point representing one of the parties, add the name of the other party to the treaties (see 6.22).

Example

United States, Treaties, etc., Korea (South)
Resource described: United States agreements with the Republic of Korea

France, Treaties, etc., Algeria
Resource described: Accords passés entre la France et l'Algérie de juillet 1962 au 31 décembre 1963

For a compilation of treaties between one party and two or more other parties, do not add the names of the other parties.

Example
Resource described: Treaties between the United States and foreign nations: from the Declaration of Independence of the United States to 1845: with notes / edited by Richard Peters

[revised version of the following paragraph and example included at the end of this instruction]

If:

the access point representing a compilation of treaties, etc., is constructed by using the collective name for the treaties, etc., (see 6.19.2.8)

and

the compilation contains all the treaties, etc.

then:

add the date, earlier date, or earliest date of signing (see 6.20.3).

EXAMPLE

Treaty of Utrecht (1713)

If:

the access point representing a single treaty is constructed by using the authorized access point representing one of the parties

and

there is only one party on the other side

then:

combine (in this order):

a) the authorized access point representing the treaty (see 6.29.1.15)
b) the name of the other party (see 6.22)
c) the date, earlier date, or earliest date of signing (see 6.20.3).

6.29.1.33.1   Single Treaties

For a single treaty, add the date, earlier date, or earliest date of the treaty (see 6.20.3).

EXAMPLE

6.29.1.33.2 Compilations of Treaties

If:
the access point representing a compilation of treaties is constructed by using the collective name for the treaties, (see 6.19.2.8)
and
the compilation contains all the treaties
then:
add the date or inclusive dates of the treaties (see 6.20.3).

EXAMPLE
Treaty of Utrecht (1713–1715)
Treaties of Nijmegen (1678–1679)

6.29.1.33.3 Protocols, Etc.

For a separately described protocol, amendment, extension, or other agreement ancillary to a treaty, etc., combine (in this order):

a) the authorized access point representing the original agreement

b) the term Protocols, etc.

c) the date of signing (if there is more than one protocol, etc., use the inclusive dates).

EXAMPLE
Ireland. Treaties, etc. Portugal, 1993 June 1. Protocols, etc., 2005 November 11 Convention for the Avoidance of Double Taxation and the Prevention of Fiscal Evasion with Respect to Taxes on Income (1993 June 1). Protocols, etc. (2005 November 11)

19. Revision of RDA 6.29.3.3

6.29.3.3 Variant Access Points Representing Treaties, etc.

Use the title for the treaty, etc., as the basis for a variant access point. Add the date of the treaty, earlier date, or earliest date of signing (see 6.20.3).

EXAMPLE
Protocol Amending the International Convention for the High Seas Fisheries of the North Pacific Ocean (1978 April 25)

Resource described: Protocol Amending the International Convention for the High Seas Fisheries of the North Pacific Ocean: message from the President of the United States transmitting the Protocol Amending the International Convention for the High Seas Fisheries of the North Pacific Ocean, together with related agreed minutes and two memoranda of understanding, signed at Tokyo, April 25, 1978. Signatories are the United States, Canada, and Japan.

For a bilateral treaty or other agreement between two or more of the following:

a) national governments
b) international intergovernmental bodies
c) the Holy See
d) jurisdictions now below the national level but retaining treaty-making powers or between one such body and a corporate body construct additional variant access points by using the authorized access points representing for each of the signatories to the treaty, etc. (other than the one used to construct the authorized access point), by combining (in this order):

a) the authorized access point representing the signatory
b) the title of the treaty.

Make additions to the variant access points, if considered important for identification by applying the instructions at 6.29.1.33.

EXAMPLE

Authorized access point for the work: Ireland. Treaties, etc. Portugal, 1993 June 1. Protocols, etc., 2005 November 11 Convention for the Avoidance of Double Taxation and the Prevention of Fiscal Evasion with Respect to Taxes on Income (1993 June 1). Protocols, etc. (2005 November 11)

For a compilation of treaties between two parties, construct variant access points for each of the parties by combining (in this order):

a) the authorized access point representing the party
b) the preferred title of the compilation.

EXAMPLE

France. Accords passés entre la France et l'Algérie de juillet 1962 au 31 décembre 1963

Algeria. Accords passés entre la France et l'Algérie de juillet 1962 au 31 décembre 1963
