From: Kathy Glennan, ALA Representative
Subject: Eliminating the instructions for Date of Expression of a Religious Work (RDA 6.24) and modifying the instructions for Authorized Access Point Representing an Expression of the Bible (RDA 6.30.3.2)

Abstract

Replace the specific instructions in RDA 6.24, Date of Expression of a Religious Work, with a reference to RDA 6.10, Date of Expression. In addition, remove the Alternative for facsimile reproductions in 6.30.3.2, Authorized Access Point Representing an Expression of the Bible.

Justification

In 2008, in response to the final draft of RDA Chapter 6, ALA questioned the separate instructions for Date of Expression for the Bible and parts of the Bible (now RDA 6.24.1.4). In our 2010 response to 6JSC/Sec/1, Issues deferred until after the first release of RDA, ALA agreed to pursue a proposal on this topic.

The current instructions refer to the date in RDA 6.24 as the Date of Expression of a Religious Work but then give explicit instructions to record the year of publication for the Bible and parts of the Bible in 6.24.1.4, even though such a date is clearly manifestation level data. RDA 6.24 only exists to provide instructions for the Bible; all other religious works are covered by the general instructions at RDA 6.10, Date of Expression.

The language in RDA 6.24.1.4 carried over unchanged from AACR2, but it makes little sense in a FRBR context. RDA 6.10.1.1 (Date of Expression – Scope) allows the date of the earliest manifestation embodying the expression to be recorded as the date of expression only after a specific date of expression cannot be identified. In addition, nothing in these general instructions allows for consistently recording the date of publication in lieu of recording a known date of expression.

In the case of Bibles, the date of publication will almost never be the first time a particular version has been published, so in almost all cases 6.24.1.4 requires recording the date of manifestation, not the original date of expression. This means that there will be multiple dates of “expression” associated with a single version.

The alternatives to 6.24.1.4 and to 6.30.3.2 are especially troubling. In the case of a facsimile reproduction, there is only one expression, so how can there be two dates of expression to record? The date of the expression of the (complete) Luther Bible is 1534, not 2002, and it certainly isn’t both 1534 and 2002. It is difficult to construct a use case where ordering the arrangement of a given translation of the Bible by date of publication is important to users. If someone is looking for the Reina-Valera Spanish translation, it will be much more important to identify the “edition” (e.g., 1569, 1852, or 1960) than the year that particular translation was published. (For details on this translation and its various versions see http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Reina-Valera.)

ALA’s proposal seeks to resolve these problems by removing the exceptional treatment for Date of Expression of a Religious Work and to remove the Alternative for facsimile reproductions for the Bible and parts of the Bible.

Summary of proposed changes:

1. In 6.10.1.1, third paragraph, remove reference to 6.24.
2. Add examples for religious works in 6.10.1.3, Recording Date of Expression.
3. Replace the current text of 6.24 with a reference to 6.10.
4. In 6.30.3.2, Authorized Access Point Representing an Expression of the Bible:
   a. Update the instruction reference in 6.30.3.2.b.iii from 6.24 to 6.10.
   b. Update selected examples to reflect the removal of specific instructions in 6.24. Note that two of these examples now use the “authorized access point for” construction in the explanation, rather than the “resource described” convention used in the rest of the examples. ALA believes that this approach is preferable here, since the authorized access point is based on attributes of the work and expression, rather than on a description of the manifestation.
   c. Remove the Alternative to record two separate authorized access points for facsimile reproductions of the Bible: one for the date of the expression, and one for the date of manifestation.

Impact

This proposed change represents a significant change in practice for those who routinely include publication dates in authorized access points for the Bible and parts of the Bible. However, American cataloging policies have not required the creation of authority records for parts of the Bible in most cases.

Although there would clearly be some impact on cleaning up existing bibliographic and authority records, the new instruction would be easier to apply in the future. It would also result in authorized access points that are considerably more useful in supporting the FRBR and FRAD user tasks.

If accepted, RDA would no longer contain specific instructions for recording a date of expression for Bible facsimiles and reproductions.
Proposal: marked-up copy

6.10.1 Basic Instructions on Recording Date of Expression

6.10.1.1 Scope

Date of expression is the earliest date associated with an expression. The date of expression may represent the date a text was written, the date of final editing of a moving image work, the date of first broadcast for a television or radio program, the date of notation for a score, the date of the recording of an event, etc. If no specific date can be identified as the date of expression, treat the date of the earliest manifestation embodying the expression as the date of expression. For additional instructions on date of expression of religious works, see 6.24.

6.10.1.2 Scope

Take information on date of expression from any source.

6.10.1.3 Recording Date of Expression

Record the date of the expression in terms of the calendar preferred by the agency creating the data. For details on recording dates according to the Christian calendar, see appendix H. Record the date of the expression by giving the year or years alone unless a more specific date is needed to distinguish one expression from another expression. Record date of expression as a separate element, as part of an access point, or as both. For instructions on recording date of expression as part of the authorized access point, see 6.27.3.

For instructions on recording date of expression as part of the authorized access point representing an expression of the Bible, see instructions at 6.30.3.2.

Core Element

Date of expression is a core element when needed to differentiate one expression of a religious work from another.

6.24.1 Basic Instructions on Recording Date of Expression of a Religious Work

6.24.1.1 Scope

6.24.1.3 Recording Date of Expression of a Religious Work

For the Bible and parts of the Bible, record the date of expression by applying the instructions at 6.24.1.4.

For other religious works and parts of those works, record the date of expression by applying the general instructions at 6.10.

Record date of expression of a religious work as a separate element, as part of an access point, or as both. For instructions on recording date of expression as part of the authorized access point, see 6.30.3.
