This revision incorporates the decisions at the 2011 JSC meeting in Glasgow and does not require a JSC response. The marked-up versions of three instructions are shown below. The JSC did agree to add missing languages to the appendix and decided that the organization of the appendix after A.30 should be in ISO two-letter code order; the JSC Secretary will submit a section of the appendix giving a few of the languages in that order for the JSC to review.

Marked-up version of A.0 of an additional change discussed in Glasgow -- JSC decision was to change “transcribing” to “recording” but some of the elements (e.g., Edition statement, Title proper) are transcribed elements; references to using appendix A are found in instructions for transcribing and recording: 1.7.2, 1.10.2, 2.12.9.3, 6.2.1.4, 7.25.5.3, 8.5.2, and 8.5.4.

A.0 Scope

This appendix provides guidelines on capitalization for English and a selected number of other languages that are to be applied when transcribing or recording specified elements.

Marked-up version of A.2.1 as decided in Glasgow

A.2.1 General guidelines

In general, capitalize the first word of each name; capitalize other words applying the guidelines given under A.10–A.55, as applicable to the language involved. For corporate names with unusual capitalization, follow the capitalization of the commonly known form of the body.

EXAMPLE
Alexander, of Aphrodisias
De la Mare, Walter
Musset, Alfred de
Cavour, Camillo Benso, conte di
Third Order Regular of St. Francis
Société de chimie physique
Ontario. High Court of Justice
El Greco Society
eBay (Firm)
netViz Corporation
hHead (Musical group)
Marked-up version of A.2.4 as decided in Glasgow -- the Lang example is taken from the revision of 6JSC/CILIP/3.

A.2.4 Other Terms Associated with Names of Persons

Capitalize titles and other terms treated as an integral part of the name of a person (see 9.2.2.9–9.2.2.26) or associated with the name (see 9.4) applying the guidelines given under A.10–A.55, as applicable to the language involved.

[examples]

Capitalize the first word and any proper names in other designations associated with a person (see 9.6), in terms indicating field of activity (9.15), and in terms indicating occupation or profession (see 9.16).

EXAMPLE

Joan, of Arc, Saint, 1412–1431
Thomas (Anglo-Norman poet)
Lang, Peter (Stamp collecting)
Butler, Jean (Composer)

Background

The Library of Congress originally had recommended the deletion of RDA appendix A (see the “deferred issues” listing at http://www.rda-jsc.org/docs/5sec6rev.pdf): A.1-A.9 could be incorporated into chapters 1, 5, 8, and eventually chapter 12; A.10-A.55 and information about other languages not in the RDA appendix can be found in online sources.

However, LC is no longer making that recommendation for the following reasons: moving sections of A.1-A.9 into separate chapters results in duplication; the publication of a printed text of RDA means Internet access is not needed for access to RDA content.

Instead, LC recommends the revisions of A.2.1 and A.2.4 shown below and presents possible actions for handling languages missing in A.10-A.55.

Revisions of instructions

#1. A.2.1. LC recommends expanding the scope of the second sentence to have a consistent practice for the FRAD Group 2 entities and adding a example for unusual capitalization for a person.
A.2.1 General guidelines

In general, capitalize the first word of each name; capitalize other words applying the guidelines given under A.10–A.55, as applicable to the language involved. For corporate, if the name of a person, family, or corporate body has unusual capitalization, follow that capitalization practice of the body.

#2. A.2.4. LC recommends the revision of the second paragraph and the addition of two examples for that paragraph. The element Field of activity is missing in the instruction in the second paragraph of A.2.4; the example for that paragraph is from the ch. 9 instruction for the element Field of activity (9.5.1.3). Two new examples are included, one for RDA 9.6 and one for RDA 9.16.

A.2.4 Other Terms Associated with Names of Persons

Capitalize titles and other terms treated as an integral part of the name of a person (see 9.2.2.9–9.2.2.26) or associated with the name (see 9.4) applying the guidelines given under A.10–A.55, as applicable to the language involved.

[examples]

Capitalize the first word and any proper names in other designations associated with a person (see 9.6), in terms indicating field of activity (9.15), and in terms indicating occupation or profession (see 9.16).

Missing languages
The content below (guidelines for using other language rules for Azerbaijani-Vietnamese and specific guidelines for Latvian and Lithuanian) is in the Library of Congress Policy Statement (LCPS) for RDA A.31. That content had been in the Library of Congress Rule Interpretation for AACR2 appendix A and, in error, was not included in the revision of that appendix for RDA.

#3. The JSC could choose one of the approaches listed below for this missing content.

a. Add each of the languages in its appropriate position in alphabetic order in the current text of RDA appendix A, beginning with A.33. Much renumbering will be involved within appendix A but not beyond appendix A. The index would be updated.

b. Add the missing content at the end of the appendix, beginning with A.56. A statement explaining the addition of languages not in alphabetic order would be added at A.31. The index would be updated.

c. Do not add the missing content to appendix A; retain the information in the LCPS for A.31.

LC recommends approach #3.b. for the content listed below and for content proposed by various language communities to the JSC in the future.

Guidelines for some languages not included in RDA appendix A are given below.

Azerbaijani
Breton
Galician
Georgian
Moldavian
Mongolian
Non-Slavic Cyrillic languages other than Azerbaijani, Moldavian, and Mongolian
Occitan
Vietnamese
